ABOUT US

HISTORY

The West of England and South Wales Women's History Network was set up in 1993 by a group of women who wanted to encourage research and stimulate interest in women's history and gender history in the south west of Britain, later incorporating "South Wales" into the title to reflect the increasing involvement of members from that part of the region. We held our first conference in June 1994 and have held an annual conference ever since.

ACTIVITIES

We hold events, including an annual conference, workshops, film showings and visits to archives, throughout the year in different venues around the region.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The annual conference is a forum for academics, independent researchers and students to present their work in a friendly and informal atmosphere. Themes for the conference are circulated in our call for papers in January each year. Recent themes have included, 'Women in Agriculture', 'Women's Networks', 'Women and the Labour Movement', 'Women and the Arts' and 'Gendering the workplace'.

NETWORK OBJECTIVES

- To encourage contact between people interested in women's history in the West of England and South Wales Region.
- To provide a forum for discussion on issues relating to women's history and gender in history.
- To promote research in all areas of women's history in the West of England and South Wales.

We are always looking for people to give talks about their research and we also encourage anyone with an interest in promoting women's history to join the network and / or our committee.

Our meetings are open to anyone who is interested, though we do sometimes charge a small entry fee to help us cover costs.

You don't have to be a woman or a member to come along though we will be encouraging you to join!

By joining you will receive regular postings of events around the region, a bi-annual electronic newsletter, and reduced fees at the summer conference.
